

Quinn is nearly 3 and a half years old now and is becoming her own little person.

As Karen and Quinn were mailing our Christmas cards they had to walk past a truck that was running. Quinn said, "Eew, car breath!" and waved her hand in front of her face.

Quinn can be so cute sometimes, but she also has a temper. She knows that if she screams, someone gets in trouble and it's usually not her. We tend to blame the older kids for making her scream. I'm afraid we may be spoiling the littlest one in our family.
